Apache Corporation named one of the World's Most Admired Companies by Fortune

HOUSTON, Jan. 19, 2018 – Apache Corporation (NYSE:APA) (Nasdaq:APA) has been named by FORTUNE magazine as one of the World's Most Admired Companies. This is Apache's first time to be recognized in the annual list.

"Apache is honored to be included among this group of world-class companies. Our long-term strategy for value creation and dedicated employees continue to make Apache a great place to work and one of the top companies in our industry," said John J. Christmann IV, Apache's chief executive officer and president.

FORTUNE collaborated with partner Korn Ferry to conduct a survey of corporate reputation in which executives, directors and analysts rated enterprises in their industry on nine criteria, from investment value and quality of management and products to social responsibility and ability to attract talent.

Companies with a survey score that ranked in the top half of its industry were listed. The complete list of Most Admired Companies can be found in FORTUNE magazine and online at <http://fortune.com/worlds-most-admired-companies/>.
